AN AGED WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH

Mother of Mrs. Ernest Neutzenhelzer
Meets With Horrible Death
Near Mooresville.

WAS BURNING SOME DEBRIS

Clearing Leaves in a Grove as Her Son Was to be Married Yesterday.

While burning leaves and debris in the yard at her home near Mooresville, Tuesday evening, Mrs. John M. Guyer, the mother of Mrs. Ernest Neutzenhelzer of this city, received burns from which she died last night.

Mrs. Guyer was engaged in cleaning up the grove surrounding her house, preparatory to the wedding of her son Walter which was to occur yesterday. A strong wind was blowing and her skirt caught fire in the back. Before she was aware of the impending danger her entire form was enveloped in flames and her body burned almost to a crisp. No one was about the place and the woman suffered agonizing pain before assistance arrived. The accident proved fatal, the aged woman suffering a most pitiable ending after hours of torture.

Mrs. Guyer was fifty-five years of age and the mother of four children. Her husband also survives her. They have frequently visited in this city at the home of their daughter, who lives on the corner of Perkins and Third streets, and were here for a few days five weeks ago.

On being apprised of the accident, Mrs. Neutzenhelzer hurried to the bedside of her mother, and arrived there some time before she passed away.

BRICK PAVING SUIT IN CIRCUIT COURT

Former Superior Judge Hanna, Sitting as Special Judge, Hears Oral Argument.

MANY FAVOR IMPROVEMENT

A civil suit involving more money than any has been in the circuit court for years, is that of the brick paving controversy which had its first inning in the higher court this afternoon. Several days ago the case was argued before the county commissioners, the argument lasting two days. It was sent from that body to the circuit court.

This afternoon, former Superior Judge C. T. Hanna, sitting as special judge, heard oral argument after which lengthy briefs were presented. A number of objections were introduced by those opposed to the improvement, but in the main the cardinal objection was that the Three Mile Road law is unconstitutional. Megee & Kiplinger represented the petitioners while Watson, Tittsworth & Green appeared for the remonstrators. A big majority of property owners favor the improvement.

BROWN HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Employee at Marble Yards Had His Hand Caught in Cogs of Wheel.

WRENCH SAVED HIS LIFE

Omer Brown, an employe in the Schrichte marble and stone yards, had a narrow escape from a horrible death today. While trying to tighten a bolt his hand was caught in the chain and the cogs of a wheel on the gas engine. Had not the heavy wrench which he was using dropped in between the chain and cogs it is likely that Brown's arm would have been taken off and his body mangled.

The wrench falling as it did tore part of the machinery loose in an instant, the heavy shafting above being dislodged and the chain twisted, stopping all the wheels in motion. The workman suffered a lacerated hand, receiving a painful gash in the palm and will be laid up a few days.

CHARITY BALL THE BIG EVENT

Kramer Coliseum Will be the Scene of a Great Ball Next Wednesday Night.

TO BE MADE ANNUAL AFFAIR

Local Celebrities Will Lead the Grand
March—Two Hundred Tickets
Will be Issued.

Next Wednesday night will mark an epoch in both the social and charitable world of this city when the terpsichorean muse and the god of generosity will join hands in the name of sweet charity and a big charity ball will be given in the Kramer rink. It is planned to make it one of the most enjoyable affairs of its character ever given in Rushville. Mayor Cowing, with a social leader on his arm will lead the grand march, followed by Lieutenant Governor Hall and partner, Col Wolfe and lady, Judge Sparks and wife, and other local celebrities will likely be in line. The grand march will begin at 8:30 prompt.

The coliseum will be adequately decorated and the floor put in good condition several days before the ball. Three clubs, the Social club, the Thursday Evening Dancing club and the Knights of Columbus club will be invited to attend and several committees will make a personal canvas of the city extending an invitation to a number of others, who do not hold membership in either of the clubs named. Two hundred tickets will be issued and it is likely that this supply will be soon exhausted.

Committees selling tickets will storm the city tomorrow. Tickets will be sold to a respectable class of people and the doors will be the melting pot where equality will be evenly tempered that a congenial spirit may reign and that all may have a good time. Many people are expected from out of the city and it is likely that quite a number of elderly people and young folks who do not dance will occupy the many seats reserved for spectators.

It is the intention of those in charge that the affair be made an annual event. During the past two years several ladies have had sorrowful scenes brought to their notice and it was found that poverty and woe to the extent never dreamed of, existed within our gates. A large number of them are worthy, for instance, in the case of seven small children who are in sad need of glasses if they would not have their eyesight impaired for all time to come. If you are not going to the ball buy a ticket anyway; you can rest assured that the money will be put to a good use and properly distributed in channels where charity will reach a class of deserving and not professional paupers.

CLEAN-UP DAY IS SET ASIDE

Mayor Cowing in a Proclamation Names May 12 as the Day.

DON'T FORGET THE DATE!

Army of City Wagons Will Haul Trash Away. City Schools to Dismiss in Afternoon.

PROCLAMATION

Looking towards a City Beautiful and the health of the residents of this community in general, I do hereby set aside Wednesday of the second week of the month of May as CLEAN-UP DAY and request that everyone lend a helping hand in an effort to make this one of the most beautiful cities in Indiana. May 12 is the day, when an army of wagons will go about the city and gather up the trash that has been piled in the alleys by the people. It is urged that the work of cleaning up your premises be done May 12, so that it may all be hauled away in one day.

HARVEY M. COWING,
Mayor.

Connersville, Greensburg and other cities in this vicinity are soon to learn that they are not the only ducks in the puddle as Rushville is also to have a cleaning up day following an old time custom that was established years ago. Mayor Cowing today issued a proclamation that Wednesday of the second week of May was to be cleaning up day and all of the housewives are to put everything aside on that day and watch for the city wagons that will haul the trash away. May 13 is the day. Put a big red line around that day on the calendar so that there can possibly be no mistake or any chance of poor memory playing a part in the affair. But the work cannot all be accomplished in one day for it will be necessary to prepare for this great day weeks ahead and look forward to it with anticipation, when the streets shall be cleaned from all waste paper and the city will compare to the City Beautiful that is often read about in fiction.

The streets are not the only places that will be cleaned, however. Everyone is requested to clean all the waste paper and trash up about their property and pile it in the alley on this particular day when the wagons hired by the city will come around and haul it away. It is urged that this work be done before May 12 as the wagons will not come back to a house to get the waste after it has once passed. Don't forget the day, the date, nor the work that is to be done.

The city schools will be dismissed early in the afternoon on May 12, so that the school children may assist in the work of cleaning up the school yard or about their own home. When seen today, Prof. Scholl gladly entered into the spirit of the movement and said, "I will be delighted to assist in any way that I can to promote such an enterprise and will gladly dismiss the schools on that day." The school teachers will attempt to interest their pupils in the work of cleaning up about their own home and also in the art of keeping the lawns beautiful.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE.

Tomorrow and Saturday nights the vocalists at the Grand, Vaude and Palace theaters will sing, in addition to their regular illustrated song, the weekly feature Daily Republican song which will appear in this publication Saturday night. DRAIS IS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

Stenographer Suffering From "Stenogramania," and Thought to be Crazy, Gets 30 Days.

QUICK WORK OF DR. DIPPY

Was Made by Mayor Swain of Shelbyville—Attorney Gives Bond
And Appeals to Circuit Court.

Thirty days in jail will be the plight of Arthur Drais unless the Mayor's order is rescinded in the Circuit court, says the Shelbyville News. The time, in addition to a dollar fine and costs, was given Drais on Wednesday for assault and battery on Chase Greenlee. The difficulty occurred at the Milleson store Sunday evening. The State had a dozen or more witnesses, but Drais, after consulting his attorney, decided to introduce no evidence.

The State's witnesses said Drais approached Greenlee at Milleson's store Sunday evening with the remark "Any of you—looking for anything?" Without waiting for an answer he slapped the young man and grappled Herschel Conner. Conner was pushed against the door, Drais clutching his throat. Conner, on the stand, said he tore loose from Drais and Constable Sammons, who came from his brother's office at the crucial moment, separated the two. Conner jerked Sammon's umbrella from his hand and struck Drais on the side of the head.

Attorney McDaniel, in his questioning, asked each witness if they had not whistled at Drais, or called him. None would admit having "guyed" the young man.

The case was appealed to the Circuit court, $250 bond being furnished by Attorney McDaniel.

At the school the chief questions that will be discussed will be tuberculosis, stream pollution and the enforcement of the pure food and drug law.

WHY WOULDN'T THERE BE?

There are six Robert Smiths in Shelbyville and five John Henrys, says the Shelbyville News. Maybe you think the postoffice department doesn't have a time keeping the mail going to the right Smith or Henry. And then there are several John Jones and others of the same name.

THE WEATHER

Showers and thunder storms tonight with colder in south portion. Friday showers and colder high winds.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Louis Stainbrook, a twelve-year-old Franklin school boy, in a debate considering the respective merits of the auto and the mule, gives his views as follows:

"A mule is much better than an automobile, because a mule can pull your load along the road and an auto cannot. The mule can plow the ground, and whoever heard a gasoline machine plowing. One thing, when an auto balks you have to get out and take wrenches and get grease on your hands and clothes, and if you were going to see your girl she would give you the 'mitten' in a minute. If a mule balks all you have to do is to build a fire under him wait till it singes the hair good and he will go alright. When a mule dies they make soap, glue and fertilizer out of him, and whoever heard of making glue out of an automobile. In an auto the ball bearings may wear out and a wheel or tire may come off, but in a mule there are no ball bearings to play out. When an auto gets started in the sand it takes a mule to pull it out, and if a mule balks in the sand an auto will come along and scare him out, so you see all automobiles are fit for are to scare people's horses and mules. We read in the papers nearly every day of autos being wrecked and the drivers killed. Well, the mule is so far ahead of the automobile it is no use putting it on paper."

The debate was decided in favor of Young Stainbrook.

IMPORTANT WAS MEREDITH'S JOB

Florida Newspaper Pays a Glowing Tribute to a Former Jackson Township Boy.

TOOK UP AN ARDUOUS TASK

That of Engineering the Feat of Building Railroad Across Ocean.

Of the death of Joseph C. Meredith, the Metropolis of Miami, Florida says in part: Mr. Meredith came to Miami in the spring of 1905 to undertake the great work of building the Florida East Coast Railway extension to Key West, over the Florida Keys and the Atlantic Ocean. Mr. Henry M. Flagler, owner of the road had searched long for a man to take charge of the work, and Mr. Meredith seemed to be the man for the place. His experience in railroad construction work in Tampico, for the Mexican Central, was the last work accomplished by Mr. Meredith before taking charge of the construction of the ocean going railway.

The gigantic task of building a railway over the ocean at no time seemed to be too great an undertaking for Mr. Meredith and he guided the work from the beginning to the time of his death. He gathered around him a corps of efficient assistants and never once wavered in the attempt to accomplish the work.

During the past year Mr. Meredith had been under treatment for diabetes, and even though the average man would have given up such a task he kept at the work of laying the path for the iron horse in to Key West until the grip of death overcame him. If the work did not proceed as rapidly as he wished, no one knew of his dissatisfaction except those on whom he fixed the responsibility and they were told in a few mild words what would be expected of them. He alone carried the weight of responsibility for the completion of the road and if the burden seemed great no one ever knew it.

About ten days ago Mr. Meredith was in the city and in speaking of the work, expressed great satisfaction at its progress and stated to a Metropolis reporter that he expected the road to be completed in February of next year.

Deceased was one of the five sons of William G. Meredith, a former well known farmer of Jackson township, who removed to Taylor county, Iowa, about 1860.

LARGE EXHIBITS FOR EXPOSITION

Is the Wish of the Indiana Corn Growers Association—More Exhibits Wanted.

HELD A MEETING RECENTLY

Object of the Exposition to be Held at Omaha, Nebraska, Was Outlined.

At a meeting of Indiana Corn Growers held Saturday, April 17th, at Indianapolis, action was taken looking toward a large number of exhibits for the National Corn Exposition to be held at Omaha next December.

W. O. Paisley, Asst. Gen. Manager of the exposition, addressed the meeting. He outlined the objects of the exposition and emphasized the educational value of same. He asked for the co-operation of Indiana corn growers and assured those present that the success of the exposition depended in a large measure upon the attitude of the Indiana people. He also urged that Indiana people make exhibits of wheat, oats and grasses, since valuable premiums would be offered in these classes.

The exposition management will urge the Purdue Experiment Station to make an educational exhibit. An exhibit was made by the Station last year and it was felt that it attracted much attention and accomplished great good. The Omaha people will assist in making this exhibit.

All Indiana movements for the exposition were placed in the hands of the executive committee of the Corn Growers' Association. This committee was instructed to appoint a special agent in each county of the State as was done last year. The special agent will have charge of all county movement for the exposition.

Press bulletins will be issued from time to time giving full particulars relative to Indiana movements for the exposition. Indiana last year captured three-fourths of all the premiums in the classes open to the world. What will Indiana do in December in 1909?

All persons interested in sustaining the reputation of Indiana as a corn producing State, are urged to write the Secretary, G. I. Cristie, Lafayette, Ind.

YOU CANNOT EVEN POINT 'EM AT 'EM

Law Has Been on the Books For Years Forbidding Fools to Point Pistols.

TO BE ENFORCED HEREAFTER

Ignorance of the law is no excuse. Did you know that Indiana has a law, passed in 1883, making it a misdemeanor to point a gun or a pistol at anyone, innocently or otherwise? The Supreme court said: "The purpose of the act of 1883 prohibiting one person pointing a gun or pistol at another is to reach two classes of persons; those who in anger or malice threateningly point such a weapon at another and those who do so without malice or anger. One class is composed of the wicked, the other of the foolish; in one case the act proceeds from wickedness in the other lack of sense."

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who to himself hat said "I'll never take 'em off in spring just because I heard a robin sing!"

Just a suggestion: Why not have about four flower beds in design in the beautiful court house lawn—one in each corner of the grounds?

Two New York State editors are under arrest on charges of using the mails to circulate advertisements of a lottery. The offense consisted in publishing announcements of a drawing for prizes conducted in their local church. Commenting on this, the South Bend Times says: "It looks a little tough if an editor cannot publish what a church can do; but the fact is that both were violating law—one the law of the State, the other the law of the United States; and Uncle Sam is not lenient with law-breakers as are most of the States. Had the two editors refused to publish the announcements, they would have been severely criticised by their home people, but reasonable persons should not ask a newspaper to do that which violates law or endangers public morals."

The Mishawaka Journal has suspended publication. The South Bend papers covered the field so completely that the smaller paper was crowded to the wall. That is the tendency these days in all lines of business and enterprises.

Congressman Edwards of Georgia thinks his salary is $2500 too much. Well he, no doubt, stands practically alone on the proposition and it might be well for him to keep a weather eye for a lunacy commission from his colleagues.

If they Chicago you too much for wheat, what's the matter with rye bread? Still better, there's corn bread, the most delicious and nutritious of all. The trouble is that the average cook does not know how to make it. It has become a lost art from disuse.

Mr. Aldrich is an ingenious man, but he acknowledges with a slight blush that he can discover no way of excusing Congress for the extravagance of its appropriations last year.

Relative to the "Card of Thanks" proposition the Connersville Courier says: "Cards of thanks published in newspapers are always in bad taste. This is why most newspapers make a charge for printing them. Hardly a day passes that some sort of a thanksgiving missive does not find its way into a newspaper office. At the price charged for this class of advertising, no paper could make any money. The object is not to make money. But to discourage the practice of sending cards of thanks to the newspapers. When the service rendered is of a public nature, the situation is different. It would be quite impossible for the thankful one to go to each person and tender him thanks. The newspaper in such cases is the proper medium through which to express thanks. But should your nearest neighbor present you with a bunch of flowers, it would be very improper for you to extend your thanks through the newspaper."

COURT DISPOSED OF BROOKBANK CASE

In the case of the State vs. Elijah Brookbank for felonious assault, the attorneys for the defendant filed a plea in the bar yesterday. The State, through the prosecuting attorney, filed a demurrer to the second part of the plea in bar and was overruled by the court. As the case was tried in the Henry circuit court and dismissed and the defendant has been in jeopardy once, the attorneys thought it was not necessary to try the case again.

AMUSEMENTS

Large crowds saw the bill at the Grand theater last night. The two pictures, "Four Wise Men" and "Infant Terrible" are amusing. The four wise men of Dobbinsville seem to think they are cute, but they are not so cute but what their wives are able to catch them in their own tricks. The other subject deals with the troubles of a young woman who attempts to entertain her fellows, while her young brother continually butts in. Miss Brown will sing "Way up in a Banyan Tree."

The comic subjects, "Cohen's Dream of Coney Island" and "Cohen Goes to Coney Island" are laughable. They describe with great vividness, the popular summer resort that Cohen sees in his dreams and then, when he faces stern reality, things are not what they should be. Earl Robinson sings "We're Almost Home."

There will be a complete change of program at the Vaudet tonight with new subjects, a new song and a talking picture.

Mrs. Lillie S. Poundstone

a Corset Specialist who represents The H. W. Gossard Company, of Chicago, and who is at our store this week, says: "Every once in a while we read something in the newspapers and magazines to the effect that corsets are injurious. One editor has written articles in which he condemns corsets and whiskey in the same sentence!"

"Where these men get their ideas, I don't know; but I can not help thinking that they have written without seriously studying the subject, or have consulted books published years ago, when we had the old style, spoon-clasp, wasp-waist corsets; but, as opposed to them we have articles by Dr. A. Ernest Galant, of New York, who read a paper before the convention of the American Medical Association, which was held in Chicago last June, and who recommended corsets for the cure of certain diseases. Also Dr. W. E. Fitch, of New York, the editor of 'Gaillard's Southern Medicine,' wrote an article during the past year, entitled: 'Is Not The Correction of Faulty Fashions in Dress An Important Factor in the Cure of Women's Diseases?'; reprinted in three prominent medical journals. In this article the doctor pointed out the necessity of being careful in selecting corsets."

"Speaking from my own experience, I have talked with a great many physicians, and have not yet met one who condemned corsets. However, they have all said that serious troubles could be traced to the misuse and the abuse of the corset, wearing them too small, and thus injuring the digestive organs; and there is no doubt that when women buy cheap corsets, without being fitted by someone who has made a study of corsets, they are running a risk of injuring their health."

"On the other hand, the woman who wears The Gossard Corset, which laces in front, being carefully fitted to the proper size, model and length by a corsetiere who knows how, will receive positive benefit, for The Gossard Corset is Hygienic. It supports the abdomen instead of depressing it. It rests the spine. It requires the wearer to throw her shoulders back, to breathe deeply; promotes correct poise. It is an elementary proposition in anatomy that the spine is the axis of the body, and when the spine is held correctly, all the other organs of the body assume their proper positions. I know women who would not take one thousand dollars for the benefit they have received from wearing The Gossard Corsets. There is so much important confidential information that I would like to give the ladies of this vicinity that I hope all who can will come in to see me during the remainder of my stay here."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

A few scattering, reeble lights were visible. Nothing moved save the river and the wind.

The landing itself they found quite deserted, something which the adventurer comprehended with a nod which, like its accompanying inarticulate ejaculation, might have been taken to indicate either satisfaction or disgust. He ignored Kirkwood altogether for the time being and presently produced a small, bright object which, applied to his lips, proved to be a boatswain's whistle. He sounded two blasts, one long, one brief.

There fell a lull, Kirkwood watching the other and wondering what next would happen. Calendar paced restlessly to and fro upon the narrow landing, now stopping to incline an ear to catch some anticipated sound, now searching with sweeping glances the black reaches of the pool.

Finally, consulting his watch, "Almost 10," he announced.

"We're in time?"

"Can't say. If that infernal boat would only show up!"

He was lifting the whistle to sound a second summons when a rowboat rounded a projecting angle formed by the next warehouse downstream and with clanking oarlocks swung in toward the landing. On her thwarts two figures, dipping and rising, labored with the sweeps. As they drew in the man forward shipped his blades and, rising, scrambled to the bows in order to grasp an iron mooring ring set in the wall.

Calendar waddled to the brink of the stage, grunting with relief.

"The other man," he asked brusquely—"has he gone aboard, or is this the first trip tonight?"

One of the watermen nodded assent to the latter question, adding gruffly, "Seen nawthin' of 'im, sir."

"Very good," said Calendar, as if he doubted whether it were very good or bad. "We'll wait a bit."

"Right-o!" agreed the waterman civilly.

Calendar turned back, his small eyes glimmering with satisfaction. "I suppose," he said to Kirkwood abruptly, "you haven't changed your mind?"

"Changed my mind?"

"About coming in with me."

"My dear sir, I can have no mind to change until a plain proposition is laid before me."

"H-m!" Calendar puffed vigorously until it occurred to him to change the subject. "You won't mind telling me what happened to you and Dorothy?"

"Certainly not."

Calendar drew nearer, and Kirkwood, lowering his voice, narrated briefly the events since he had left the Pless in Dorothy's company.

Her father followed him intently, interrupting now and again with an exclamation or pertinent question—as, had Kirkwood been able to see the face of the man in No. 9 Froggall street? The negative answer seemed to disconcert him.

"Youngster, you say? Blam' if I can lay my mind to him! Now, if that Mulready!"

"It would have been impossible for Mulready—whoever he is—to recover and get to Craven street before we did," Calendar pointed out.

"Well, go on." But when the tale was told "It's that scoundrel Mulready!" the man affirmed with heat. "It's his hand. I know him. I might have had sense enough to see he'd take the first chance to hand me the double cross. Well, this does for him, all right!" Calendar lowered viciously at the river. "You've been blamed useful," he told Kirkwood assertively. "If it hadn't been for you I don't know where I'd be now—nor Dorothy, either—an obvious afterthought. "There's no particular way I can show my appreciation, I suppose? Money?"

"What in heaven's name, Calendar?"

"I've got enough to last me till I reach New York, thank you."

"Well, if the time ever comes just shout for George B. I won't be wanting. I only wish you were with us, but that's out of the question."

"Doubtless."

"No two ways about it. I bet anything you've got a conscience concealed about your person. What! You're an honest man, eh?"

"I don't want to sound immodest," returned Kirkwood, amused.

"You don't need to worry about that. But an honest man's got no business in my line." He glanced again at his watch. "D—that Mulready! I wonder if he was cute enough to take another way? Or did he think—the fool!"

He cut off abruptly, seeming depressed by the thought that he might have been outwitted, and, clasping hands behind his back, chewed savagely on his cigar, watching the river. Kirkwood found himself somewhat wearied. The uselessness of his presence there struck him with added force. He bethought him of his midnight boat train, scheduled to leave a station miles distant in an hour and a half. If he missed it he would be stranded in a foreign land, penniless and practically without friends, Brentwick being away and all the rest of his circle of acquaintances on the other side of the channel. Yet he lingered in poor company, daring fate that he might see the end of the affair. Why?

There was only one honest answer to that question. He stayed on because of his interest in a girl whom he had known for a matter of three hours at most. It was insensate folly on his part, ridiculous from any point of view, but he made no move to go.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE slow minutes lengthened monotonously.

There came a sound from the street level. Calendar held up a hand of warning. "Here they come! Steady!" he said tensely.

Calendar turned to the boat.

"Sheer off," he ordered. "Drop out of sight. I'll whistle when I want you."

"Aye, aye, sir."

The boat slipped noiselessly away with the current and in an instant was lost to sight. Calendar plucked at Kirkwood's sleeve, drawing him into the shadow of the steps. "E-easy," he whispered. "And, I say, lend me a hand, will you, if Mulready turns ugly?"

"Oh, yes," assented Kirkwood, with a nonchalance not entirely unassumed.

The racket drew nearer and ceased. The hush that fell thereafter seemed only accentuated by the purring of the river. It was ended by footsteps echoing in the covered passageway. Calendar craned his thick neck round the shoulder of stone, reconnoitering the landing and stairway.

"Thank God!" he said under his breath. "I was right, after all!"

A man's deep tones broke out above. "This way. Mind the steps. They're a bit slippery, Miss Dorothy."

"But my father?" came the girl's voice, attuned to doubt.

"Oh, he'll be along—if he isn't waiting now in the boat."

They descended, the man leading. At the foot, without a glance to right or left, he advanced to the edge of the stage, leaning out over the rail as if endeavoring to locate the rowboat.

"But, Mr. Mulready!"

The girl's words were drowned by a prolonged blast on the boatswain's whistle at her companion's lips. The shorter one followed in due course.

"But what shall we do if my father isn't here—wait?"

"No; best not to—best to get on the Alethea as soon as possible, Miss Calendar. We can send the boat back."

"Once aboard the lugger the girl is mine," eh, Mulready, to say nothing of the loot!"

If Calendar's words were jocular his tone conveyed a different impression entirely. Both man and girl wheeled right about to face him, the one with a strangled oath, the other with a low cry.

"The devil!" exclaimed this Mr. Mulready.

"Oh, my father!" the girl voiced her recognition of him.

"Not precisely one and the same person," commented Calendar suavely, "but—er—thanks, just as much. You see, Mulready, when I make an appointment I keep it."

"We'd begun to get a bit anxious about you"—Mulready began defensively.

"So I surmised from what Mrs. Hallam and Mr. Kirkwood told me. Well?"

The man found no ready answer. He fell back a pace to the railing, his features working with his deep chagrin. The murky flare of the gas lamp overhead fell across a face handsome beyond the ordinary, but marred by a sullen humor and seamed with indulgence—a face that seemed hauntingly familiar until Kirkwood in a flash of visual memory reconstructed the portrait of a man who lingered over a dining table with two empty chairs for company. This, then, was he whom Mrs. Hallam had left at the Pless—a tall, strong man, very heavy about the chest and shoulders.

"Wh- my dear friend," Calendar was taunting him, "you don't seem overjoyed to see me for all your wild anxiety! 'Pon my word, you act as if you hadn't expected me—and our engagement so clearly understood at that. Why, you fool!"—here the mask of irony was cast—"did you think for a moment I'd let myself be nabbed by that yap from Scotland Yard? Were you banking on that? I give you my faith I ambled out under his very nose! Dorothy, my dear," turning impatiently from Mulready, "where's that bag?"

The girl withdrew a puzzled gaze from Mulready's face (it was apparent to Kirkwood that this phase of the affair was no more enigmatic to him than to her) and drew aside a corner of her cloak, disclosing the gladstone bag securely grasped in one gloved hand.

"I have it, thanks to Mr. Kirkwood," she said quietly.

Kirkwood chose that moment to advance from the shadow. Mulready started and fixed him with a troubled and unfriendly stare. The girl greeted him with a note of sincere pleasure to her surprise.

"Why, Mr. Kirkwood! But I left you at Mrs. Hallam's!"

Kirkwood bowed, smiling openly at Mulready's discomfiture.

"A bad case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of Hyomei. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying and disagreeable, and to cure, from the use of Hyomei has from me a strong recommendation and endorsement."—Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingsley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16 1908.

Thousands of such letters are in existence, and thousands more would be but for the desire to avoid publicity.

Danville, Ill., April 29.—Asa Hathaway, manager of the American Hominy company's elevator at Ridge Farm, twelve miles south of here, is alleged to be a defaulter to the amount of $7,000. Hathaway disappeared Saturday night, leaving a note for his father, informing him of the shortage. It is stated that Hathaway conceived the plan to make a fortune for himself by following the lead of Patten and buying wheat. He neglected to unload before prices broke, and he lost the company's money which he had invested.

Hathaway was bonded by the In-

COUNTY OFFICER LIABLE

Not Relieved by Mistake According to Appellate Court.

Indianapolis, April 29.—A judgment holding Cyrenus F. Heritage liable for $5,101.23 collected by him while he was treasurer of Madison county and not turned over to his successor in office, has been affirmed by the appellate court. An examination of the books of the auditor and treasurer was made by a commission of three men, by agreement, and the decision of the court was based on its report. Heritage relied on a previous settlement with the county board. But Judge Hadley said:

"A county officer with public money in his hands is not relieved from his obligation to repay the same to the proper authorities by either mistake or fraud of the board of commissioners. He can only be relieved of this obligation by paying over the money, and mistake, fraud or negligence of the board of commissioners in making settlements can not be interposed as a substitute for such payment."

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, April 29.—Governor
Marshall and his private secretary, Mark Thistlethwaite, have been served with subpoenas to appear before the grand jury at South Bend, next Tuesday, to tell what they know about prize fighting in that city. Governor Marshall sent a letter to Judge W. A.
Funk, of South Bend, telling him he has no personal knowledge of prize fighting there, but that reports have reached him that fights have been pulled off there. He asked Judge Funk to apprise Prosecutor Patee of the contents of the letter. If the prosecutor thinks the governor and his secretary can throw any light on the situation, the governor says they will go to South Bend. The bouts that were advertised for South Bend this week were stopped by Mayor Fogarty.
Prosecutor Patee's efforts to drag the governor and his secretary to South Bend to testify are not regarded seriously here. The governor merely called Patee's attention to reports that fights were being permitted. His information came through newspapers and he merely asked Patee to investigate. Promoters of the fistie game fear that Patee's move may cause the governor to issue an order at once against the game that will stop it in every city in the state where boxing bouts of ten rounds are now permitted.

A shake-up may come in the Indiana railroad commission within the next few days that will startle the natives.
Governor Marshall has a plan of reorganization in mind that will completely change things. He may delay taking action until Monday although he hopes to be able to act at once.
The term of Judge Wood, of Evansville, expires tomorrow. He has served for four years, having been appointed as a Democrat by Governor Hanly when the commission was created. While the governor has no particular desire to continue Hanly appointees in office, he may hold to Judge Wood. In fact, it can be stated on reliable authority that if the governor's plans for reorganizing the commission goes through, Judge Wood will be retained and appointed for a short term of two years. The governor believes that he has the authority to appoint a new commissioner. At present two members—Judge McClure and Henry Bowling are Republicans.
Charles Reiley, secretary of the commission, is a Republican. His job pays $2,500 a year. He is a Hanly appointee. The rest of the clerical force are Republicans as are the inspectors.
The governor does not care particularly about the politics of the latter, but he is going to put a new man in to succeed Reiley unless something happens to prevent.

For the ostensible purpose of getting together on plans for the local Democratic campaign, a conference was held here by former Mayor John W.
Holtzman, National Committeeman
Taggart and Chairman Wm. F. Moore.
James L. Keach, former city chairman, was invited but was unable to attend. Sometime ago, Governor Marshall called these men to his office to urge them to bury factional differences for the good of the party. The meeting was a direct result of his efforts. The local situation was discussed, but no candidates were picked. It was said that it was agreed that only high class men shall be nominated. Taggart convinced Holtzman and Moore that he will not be a candidate. Holtzman said that he believes that Taggart is sincere and that he has no candidate in sight at this time. Taggart declared that he will support any good man for the nomination. It was decided that the primaries shall not be held until late in the summer. This is in line with the plans of the Republicans who intend to put their primaries off as long as possible.

IMPORTANT RULING

Supreme Court Says Dangerous Machinery Must be Guarded.

Indianapolis, April 29.—The supreme court has decided that the "factory act" requires all dangerous machinery to be guarded so as to protect employees, if it can be made safe without impairing its usefulness, but the court says that it is only "vats, pans, saws, planers, cogs, gearing, belting, shaft-ing, set screws," which the court can say, as matter of law, come within the description of dangerous machinery. As to other kinds of machinery, it is a question for the jury to decide whether or not the machinery should be guarded.
